Commitment & dedication to the working families of Texas are at the forefront of Kahn & Harrison, LLP's law practice. Husband & wife, John J. Kahn, Jr. and Jennifer Hodges Kahn provide a true team approach to representing their clients. It is not uncommon for the married couple to spend hours at home working on their cases together, long after their children have gone to bed. In 2007, John & Jennifer formed a partnership with Brooks Harrison, who is equally as passionate about helping Texas families as they are. The lawyers at Kahn & Harrison, LLP are committed and dedicated to providing the very best legal representation for their clients. Whether a client has suffered from a personal injury, had a loved one injured or killed in a tragic accident, or has been charged with a serious crime, the attorneys at Kahn & Harrison are there to help.

John J. Kahn, Jr. is a devout Catholic who carries the traditions of his faith into the practice of law. Jennifer Kahn also has a strong Christian faith, which is exemplified in her honesty, integrity and compassion to the needs of her clients and their cases. This approach has helped them become successful trial lawyers and advocates for their clients.

Jennifer graduated from Texas A&M University and both are graduates of South Texas College of Law. John & Jennifer are both members of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, the Harris County Criminal Lawyers Association and the Christian Trial Lawyers Association. The couple has 3 children: Carson, Cody and Carolyn.
